Annexation delayed

Opponents crowd city hall

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Opponents of the city of Madison's annexation of East Madison presented petitions against the action and crowded city hall Tuesday as plans were put off for at least another week.

The city of Madison's annexation of East Madison will be considered at a special meeting at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 30. Some officials did not receive the proper legal notice in time for Tuesday's meeting which resulted in the delay.

A petition protesting the proposed annexation that was signed by about 75 people was presented to the council.

MADISON

The city can annex the area without the permission of landowners because the neighborhood is surrounded totally by the city and is less than 60 acres.

The area has about 300 residents. The city considered annexing the area several years ago but dropped the plan after an outpouring of opposition from residents of both the East Madison area and the city.

Victory — An estimated 25,000 race fans were on hand to see Rick Carelli win the Ram Tough 200 at Gateway International Raceway Saturday afternoon. In the second race, Jason Schuler of Cambridge, Wis., won the Re/Max Challenge Series Gateway 50. At left, winner Carelli, known as the "High Plains Drifter" on the NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series, raises his arms in celebration of his team's win. Carelli had to outduel 1996 champ Ron Hornaday and defending series champion Jay Sauter in the final 10 laps. The next big event at Gateway is the second annual CARQUEST Auto Parts 250 NASCAR Busch Series race, set for Oct. 15-17. For more pictures of Saturday's race, see People, Page 1C.

Facility draws resident complaints, council OK

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

After much discussion, the Granite City Council approved a rezoning that allows the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel to build a large maintenance facility within a long stone's throw of several homes.

Council members voted 12-1 to approve the rezoning at the regular meeting Tuesday night over the objections of homeowners and Alderman Eddie Asadorian.

Homeowners are worried that the facility, which will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, will make too much noise.

Plus, the proximity of the building will lower property values, homeowners said, and buyout offers from GCS officials were too low.

Company representative Bob Maxwell said that he had had an independent appraisal made on the homes and offered buyouts based on the appraisals.

"I haven't heard from any of the residents down there who I made offers to," Maxwell said. "No one's Granite City Steel faces a possible $70,000 fine for alleged safety violations that supposedly resulted in an employee's death April 5.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is alleging three safety violations — resulting from an inspection conducted after the fatality.

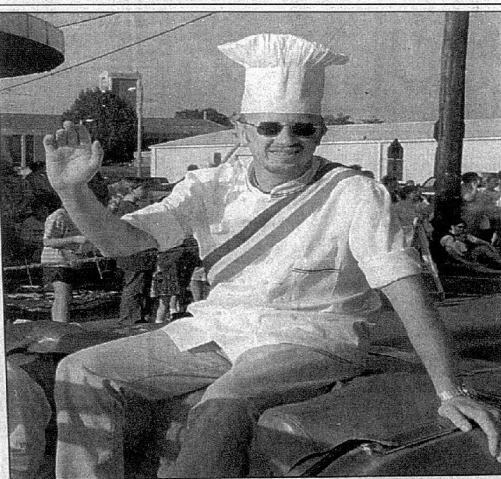

Samuel J. Burch, 46, of Edwardsville was killed on a Sunday evening near the blast furnace. Burch was helping clear a conveyor belt that carries material from the material handling yard to the blast furnace stockhouse.

Burch somehow became caught between the belt and the conveyor's structure. The conveyor was not powered at the time of the accident.

Although he was working alone, Burch was in constant radio contact with other employees, said Granite City Steel representative Bob Maxwell immediately after the

CAPITOL FACTS

Party pushing those 'personal' proposals

In the old Soviet Union, the capital city of Moscow was often referred to as "the center." All policy, all power, all authority emanated from the center.

The state legislature operates about the same way.

I'm not suggesting that legislators who show too much independence are sent to Siberia (not literally, anyway). But power and ideas usually tend to flow outwards from the Illinois General Assembly's "center," which is the legislative leadership.

Why? Because the legislative leaders — the House Speaker, Senate President and House and Senate minority leaders — have hoarded almost all the power and the money that goes along with it for themselves. Everyone else is obliged to go along.

So, since the leaders have the greatest say in what goes on under the dome, they are able to raise the most cash from the people who want something done. And that means the leaders are the only ones who can afford to pay for the research to develop campaign issues and pay to advertise them so that voters reelect their members. Those issues then set the legislative agenda for the coming session, and the cycle of dependency starts all over again with the next election season.

Individual legislators and legislative candidates accept this oligarchy because they are convinced that the direction from above, not to mention the accompanying mountains of campaign cash, will get them elected and then keep them in office. And they're probably right.

On the positive side, voters are offered much more sophisticated proposals than individual candidates running "mom-and-pop" campaigns could ever come up with. But the price for that is a political agenda controlled by just a few people, even if their ideas are usually not too bad.

So, for example, a whole bunch of Democratic candidates for the state Senate have come out for a "safe school" plan. It sounds like a good idea, and it probably is. They've all held press conferences to trumpet what they claim is their proposal.

But what most voters probably don't know is that when 50th Senate District candidate Glenn Montgomery (D-Pawnee) unveiled his "safe school" plan, it was almost exactly the same as one pushed by just one suburban Frankfort Democrat, Pam Woodward. The safe school idea that both claim as theirs alone was actually developed at head-on collisions after extensive voter research.

Just about every House Democratic candidate involved in even a mildly competitive race is harping on educational "accountability." They want tougher standards for administrators and teachers. They also want more "discipline" in the schools and they have strikingly similar plans to accomplish those goals.

Polls taken by the House Democrats over the years have shown that both accountability and discipline are much more important to voters than school funding. So all of their candidates rarely take a breath without first uttering those two magic words.

The House Republicans are the most blatant about the cookie-cutter approach to campaigning.

"During the last legislative session, I fought hard for the passage of much-needed property tax relief for our families," writes southern Illinois Rep. John O. Jones (R-Mt. Vernon) in a taxpayer-paid letter to his constituents.

"During the last legislative session, I fought hard for the passage of much-needed property tax relief for our families," claims south suburban Rep. Renee Kosel (R-New Lenox) in a taxpayer-financed letter that her constituents received the same day.

"I believe that money should be returned to you to spend on your family's needs," Jones continued.

Wouldn't you know it, Kosel "wrote the exact same thing." "I'm always looking for ways to keep men and women out of the political tag of people," writes Rep. Kosel in yet another taxpayer-funded mailer.

"I am always looking for ways to keep men and women out of the political tag of people," claims east-central Illinois Rep. Dale Righter (R-Mattoon) in his own state-paid mailer.

"I'm going to keep working for property tax relief," writes Kosel.

"I am going to keep working for property tax relief," Righter pledges. Kosel's use of the contraction "I'm" must be a regional thing.

As you might have guessed, rugged individualism is not an abundant commodity in Springfield.

Be especially careful on roads around farm

Hey you! Turn on your lights! Don't look around — I am talking to you, the guy running without his car headlights. This can be a very dangerous situation.

You see, well, I don't do that, and for many that's probably right. So what are you getting at Farm Guy?

This is National Farm Safety and Health Week and I want to bring to your attention some of the causes associated with farm accidents.

You would not think of getting in your car and driving down the road after dark without turning on your lights. So why does one feel comfortable driving a massive farm machine on the road in the dark?

I just want to remind those who operate the tractors and combines that safety comes first. Be sure your lights are all working and you have the proper reflective markers required by law on your equipment.

The numbers of deaths and injuries have dropped over the years, but we must remember not to get careless on the farm.

Never carry extra passengers on tractors that are not equipped to do so, never step over the pto when it is running and never start a tractor from the ground.

I know scare tactics work sometimes in reminding one of the hazards of the farm, so take a look at these figures.

Last year, according to a report issued by Country Companies Insurance Group, 29 people died in Illinois last year in farm related accidents. The survey showed roadway crashes accounted for the majority of the deaths recorded.

Eight people — three farmers and five other motorists — were killed, twice as many as the year before. I ask the question: "What could have been done to prevent these statistics?"

Bar celebrates 10 years at new location

The local "Hostess with the Mostest" is throwing a big party Oct. 3 and gosh darn it I'm going to miss it.

Musical, food, libations. A true bash and I'll be out of town. I've known Vicki Vanzo Stas since she was a petite, pretty, blonde girl. She's no longer petite, but still pretty and blonde and, more importantly, kind, generous and compassionate.

And funny. Doubt my assessment and I can provide references galore.

The occasion is a celebration of her 10th year in business at the "new" Vanzo's location on North Main Street in Edwardsville, although the actual opening was Sept. 1, 1988, following a monster "last call" party Aug. 30 marking the final night of business at the saloon's former location on St. Louis Street.

"It's the only business I know," Vicki told me recently. "For a time, I managed the old place at 10 St. Louis, but actually, I've worked in one, in one capacity or another, for more than 24 years. And I still have some of the old employees from the previous place working here."

Maybe it's in the genes. Her grandfather, the late Louis Vanzo, Sr., ran an old-time saloon in Livingston for a number of years prior to Prohibition. After being forced to close it down, he moved his family to Edwardsville where he and his wife, Eva, bought a bar that had once graced a hotel at the corner of St. Louis and Vandallia Streets, now the location of the First Federal and Loan.

That was in 1925 and they operated the hotel slash board-noghouse slash dining room until 1933 when Prohibition was repealed.

After receiving the first liquor license issued in Edwardsville after the repeal, her grandfather bought a small bar that had once graced a dance hall in Livingston and set it up in the hotel lobby.

In 1935, he moved his operation to a location on Second Street — where the Buhrmeister store is now situated — and remained there until 1940 when the bar made it's move to the St. Louis Street location.

It remained a family business, serving meals as well as beverages, and at one time or another all six of Louis and Eva's kids helped out around the place.

Following World War II, after their father suffered a stroke, brothers Frank and Jim Vanzo bought Louis out and continued to run the bar/restaurant with the help of their sister, Louise Dehle, who operated the kitchen for a number of years.

After Frank's death in 1973, Jim continued running the business until he decided to retire and sold the bar to his daughter, Vicki.

She continued as proprietor until 10 years ago when, with one exception, the entire block was razed and the bar — like McSorley's Saloon in New York, it could easily be called "the old place at home" — was doomed. Vicki moved to her current building on Main Street.

Physically, the new bar bears little resemblance to the old place. Thoroughly modern, it has an immaculate kitchen and none of the musty, rusty old antique paraphernalia hanging from the ceiling.

But there are reminders. Yellowing pictures from the past still hang on several walls. There's still a pool table at the back and a lot of old fellows — not the same men, of course — play a little pinocle there.

It goes without saying that many, many of the patrons of the old place can be found at the new one. Downtown businessmen and women, jurists and area lawyers still lunch there. Many of them return after 5 p.m. for a pause that refreshes.

My friend Brad Halford — a regular at the old location who continues at the new one — probably said it best when the old one closed. He explained the charm of Vanzo's:

"You can see guys in Brooks Brothers suits and Gucci shoes and the guy next to him will be wearing worn-out overalls and a flannel shirt and they're drinking together," he said. "Everybody is treated as equals in here. It's a melting pot right at that door."

Some things never change. Happily.

Area police still uncovering victims of alleged molester

COLLINSVILLE

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Collinsville police detectives were in southeastern Missouri Wednesday, interviewing former Collinsville residents who may have been abused by alleged child molester Gary Davis.

"We're still getting calls, and I'm sure we'll continue to," said Maj. Ed Delmore, assistant police chief.

The department is working with Illinois State Police to track down potential victims of Davis, 35, of the 400 block of South Chestnut, and on cases that may have occurred outside the city. Davis remains in the Madison County Jail on $1.5 million bail, the result of 11 counts of predatory criminal sexual assault of a child filed against him earlier this month.

The charges stemmed from three victims. Two of the victims, boys ages 11 and 12, allegedly were abused during the summer, resulting in seven charges. The third victim, now 19, told police he was abused when he was 13, accounting for the other four charges.

Davis already was free on bond for a similar charge in St. Clair County from 1995. That incident involved a 6-year-old boy.

The latest case broke Sept. 10 when Collinsville police were called to a burglary in progress at Davis' home at about 2 a.m. An officer found a woman trying to crawl into a window.

When the woman was confronted, she told the officer she knew the owner and her 11-year-old son was inside the home. The woman left the scene — and her son behind — after Davis gave her money for a taxi.

"When we talk to one victim, we get two or three names of potentially more victims."

Maj. Ed Delmore
Assistant police chief

But Officer Richard Barrett knew something was wrong when he noticed that Davis' car fit the description of a vehicle whose driver had attempted to lure children inside just days before. Barrett then discovered the boy and other suspicious evidence in Davis' bedroom.

The boy told police he had been assaulted by Davis on three occasions. The 11-year-old led police to the 12-year-old victim, a trend that continues with each new call, Delmore said.

"When we talk to one victim, we get two or three names of potentially more victims," Delmore said.

Stories police get from victims also share a common thread: gifts. Police say Davis used everything from ice cream cones to bicycles to lure his victims, whether the incidents were last month or six years ago.

"It's almost identical every time," Delmore said.

Police are unsure how many victims they ultimately may find. Davis has lived all over the area — including Collinsville, Belleville, O'Fallon and Shiloh — since 1991. Anyone with information about Davis should contact Detectives Tom Coppotelli or Bob Carpenter at 344-2131.

Classes, data jacks allow students to enjoy computers from dorm rooms

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Free computer workshops at SIUE are helping university housing residents use the latest technologies in their dormitory rooms.

Before this semester, residents at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville had access to computers only in busy labs at Woodland Hall and Cougar Village.

But after the August completion of Prairie Hall — the new residence hall under construction south of Woodland Hall — and renovations at Cougar Village, all residents will have a direct link to the campus network through their personal computers in their living units, said university housing director Mike Schultz.

"Data jacks currently in Woodland Hall allow residents instant access to the world through e-mail and the World Wide Web without using a modem and tying up telephone lines."

Tim Brown of SIUE's Office of Information Technology said: "There's a maximum of 30 people who can be connected at Woodland Hall either through modems or ordinary telephone calls. Residents don't realize they have this special jack and can use it."

Rather than operating by modem, the jack allows for use of an Ethernet card, which can be purchased at computer stores for about $50.

The first student workshop, in January, focused on installing the necessary Ethernet cards into personal computers and configuring the computer's systems to link to the campus network.

Many of the students who attended had recently brought computers from home after the Christmas break and were eager to get on-line.

Future programs will focus on using e-mail, personal web page creation and publication and basic features of the campus network.

"Having these data connectors is a big plus because they're faster than modems, there's no competition for lines and there's never a busy signal,"

Brown said.

The classes are being done on a trial basis this semester. "We were already providing most of these classes for faculty and staff, now we're expanding it to residents," Brown said.

The workshops are funded by an Excellence in Education grant. Additional information is available by calling either Brown at 692-3739 or Schultz at 692-4628.

Brown also has a web page up and running with documentation from the workshops about how residents can get started on their computers. The address is <http://techtraining.siu.edu/edresident>.

Police prowling for campus speeders

SIUE

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Motorists who speed through the campus at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are likely to get ticketed, the university's police chief said Tuesday.

Mainly because of higher enrollment and more students living on campus, SIUE Police are increasing their efforts to patrol University Drive, the main road through the campus, at peak traffic times.

SIUE Police Chief Rich Harrison said the increased enforcement effort began Monday. He said it was implemented because the heavier vehicle and pedestrian traffic increases the possibility of accidents occurring.

"We have a lot of cars on campus, both from students and employees and from people cutting through campus on the way home and to work," Harrison said. "We want everyone to understand a couple of things about using University Drive."

"First, the speed limit through the main part of campus is 25 miles per hour. Also, on the SIUE campus, pedestrians have the right of way. With so much foot and vehicle traffic on campus, we have to be even more watchful

"First, the speed limit through the main part of campus is 25 miles per hour. Also, on the SIUE campus, pedestrians have the right of way. With so much foot and vehicle traffic on campus, we have to be even more watchful that these two rules are followed."

Rich Harrison
SIUE police chief

that these two rules are followed."

For that reason, SIUE Police are stepping up their efforts to write tickets for motorists exceeding the speed limit or failing to yield to pedestrians.

Enrollment at SIUE has increased by more than 300 students compared with last fall, and the opening of the new residence hall, Prairie Hall, means another 500 students are living on campus.

Harrison said the university has had a longstanding problem with motorists speeding through the campus early in the morning.

One of the reasons the increased enforcement effort is possible is the new spotlight at University Drive and East University Drive, Harrison said. In the past, an SIUE police officer was needed to run the light manually for about 90 minutes in the morning and again in the afternoon when classes let out.

The new spotlight is self-functioning and loop-operated, which frees an officer for the traffic detail, Harrison said.

He said there have been complaints about motorists not paying attention to pedestrians using the crosswalks on University Drive, especially in the morning.

"That's where the directed patrols are being assigned," he said.

Officers are being assigned specifically to traffic in those areas between 7-9 a.m. and 4-5:30 p.m.

Campus police have written more citations than usual this week, Harrison said.

"We want to let people know that we are there. We would like them to slow down on their own. If they don't slow down themselves, we'll be there to slow them down."

Apperson retires, is named inspector
Sgt. John W. Apperson is exchanging catching one type of lawbreaker for another.

The long-time member of the Granite City Police Department retired last week. Mayor Ron Selph immediately appointed him assistant city inspector, with the unanimous approval of the City Council Sept. 15.

He will be working with City Inspector Vince Serum in making certain city ordinances are obeyed, itself a daunting task.

Apperson is also a magician with a one-man show that delights children of all ages. Selph joked that maybe Apperson could use his magic to make slum lords disappear.

AROUND THE AREA

Here's what happened around the Metro East in the past week:

East St. Louis

Empowerment Zone suggestions offered

About 20 East St. Louis residents presented a range of ideas for revitalizing the city at the final Empowerment Zone hearing Monday at the Clyde Jordan Senior Citizens Center.

In January, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development will award $100 million over 10 years to 15 Empowerment Zone applicants. East St. Louis, St. Louis city and county, and Wellston, Mo., have made a regional application.

In 1994, East St. Louis and St. Louis applied separately for the grant, but received only the Enterprise Community designation, a grant of $2.95 million each.

In both programs, funds support projects that stimulate investment, create jobs, expand businesses or support the community. The zone also provides tax incentives for businesses that create jobs.

The application, due Oct. 9, must include a community vision, goals, specific projects, timelines, budgets and citizen input.

To that end, FOCUS St. Louis and the Neighborhood Technical Assistance Center of East St. Louis have conducted public hearings for the last month in the three proposed Empowerment Zone cities.

Residents will also be asked for input if Congress approves the regional application, called "Building the Bridge."

Monroe County

No charges in BB gun assault

A 17-year-old who allegedly brought a BB gun to Gibault Catholic High School last week won't face any charges unless the three students he allegedly fired on or their families make an official complaint.

The teenager, a senior at Gibault, allegedly hit one girl in the leg, another girl in the chest and a boy across the belt area when he shot the gun after school Sept. 8.

No serious injuries resulted from the incident.

Waterloo Police Chief Joe Maul said Thursday Gibault Principal Dan Brueggeman had given him an account of the incident after the principal met with the parents of the students who were involved.

Police were not notified of the incident until Sept. 14 and the Gibault administration did not learn of it until a parent of one of the girls who was shot telephoned Brueggeman at home.

The girl apparently told her parents about the incident after they questioned her about a bruise on her leg.

Lebanon

Teacher gets Foundation Award

A Lebanon school teacher was among four educators in the state to receive an unrestricted $25,000 financial award.

Jeanette M. Middleton, 39, a sixth-grade teacher at Lebanon Elementary School, received the Milken Family Foundation National Educator Award in front of a school assembly Monday.

Representatives from the Illinois State Board of Education, Mayor Matthew Berberich and Police Chief Michael Donovan were among those on hand to congratulate Middleton as she accepted her award.

Harry Litchfield of the State Board of Education presented Middleton with the award, which was kept secret until the announcement was made.

Middleton, who recently received the "Those Who Excel Award," said she had no idea she would be chosen.

Middleton was selected to receive the award by an independent committee appointed by the state's department of education. The criteria for the award included expert instruction, distinguished achievement in developing innovative curricula, outstanding ability to instill students with sound values and commitment to professional development and excellence.

firearm," Haine said. "The right to own a firearm under the Constitution is reserved for those who are law-abiding."

The program is modeled after the "Boston Gun Project," an intense effort to remove illegal guns from the streets of Boston in the early 1990s.

"The purpose is to remove firearms from the hands of young people," Haine said. "A young person is not qualified or able to handle these items, and in the wrong context, they lead to violence and tragic death."

The enforcement aspects of the program will begin Oct. 1. Until then, Haine and McCain said there would be an "amnesty period" for anyone wanting to call the police and turn in an illegal firearm.

Starting Oct. 1, McCain said when patrol officers encounter a young person with an illegal weapon, the police will go to their homes and ask the parents for consent to search for other weapons.

The police also will go to the homes of anybody who is with the offender when the weapon is found and will seek consent to search for weapons there.

If consent is not given, McCain said police might use search warrants in some instances.

However, he said the emphasis is simply to remove the weapons, not prosecute, and the police and State's Attorney's office may grant limited immunity from prosecution for any weapons discovered.

"We're going to carefully draft these immunities," Haine said. "In the worst case, you find a dead body in there, the room is being searched. This is just for the firearms, not everything."

In addition, he said police officers would work with probation department workers to take guns from those on probation — especially youths.

After some discussion with community leaders, Haine said they probably would meet in about 60 days to assess the program.

If successful, it could expanded next to the Madison-Venice area, with the Illinois State Police taking the lead in enforcement.

Venice Police Chief James Newsome, who has talked to Haine several times about the program, said he supports it.

Eventually, Haine said he hopes to expand the program throughout the county.

In the meantime, he said anybody wishing to turn in an illegally owned firearm can call their local police department or the Madison County Sheriff's Department. In most cases, he said there would be no prosecution of anyone turning a firearm in to police.

that he wanted to take in the whole neighborhood because many residents were seeking annexation into the city. He said that each individual annexation costs the city approximately $300, so it was far less expensive to annex the entire neighborhood at once.

At Tuesday's meeting, Hamm told the crowd that although their taxes may be slightly higher after annexing, the city would start providing services — including police protection — almost immediately.

He also said the city probably would put a residential tax increment financing district in place to help pay for improvements, especially sewers and streets.

Another concern is the upcoming census. Hamm said that having the additional residents will mean more money for Madison. That would come in the form of motor fuel tax funds and other state-supplied revenue that is distributed on a per-capita basis.

Workshop slated

An educational workshop for parents of children with disabilities is set for 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 10 at LINC Inc., 120 East A St. in Belleville.

The meeting's purpose is to make parents aware of the Individual Education Plan conference and how to become a more effective partner in planning a child's educational program. The workshop will be led by Bonnie Patton, a consultant with Family Matters of Effingham.

Refreshments will be provided and a sign language interpreter will be provided on request. Pre-registration is required. For information call Jim at 235-9988 or TTD 235-0451.

WATER MAIN FLUSHING
Coming Soon To Your Neighborhood!

During September, we plan to flush all water mains in the Granite City area. This annual program is necessary to ensure continued water quality and to check fire-hydrant operation.

When we are working in your neighborhood, you may experience a reduction in water pressure or draw some discolored water for a short period of time. If this occurs, simply let your water run until it's clear again. Your water is safe to drink throughout the flushing program.

Our annual "free chlorine" flushing program also has begun. By temporarily switching to a different form of chlorine in the water treatment process, this annual maintenance program prevents accumulation of nitrates in the water system. It's another step we take to ensure continued delivery of high-quality water to your homes and businesses.

contacted me, so I'm assuming they don't want to sell."

The offer is not necessary for building the facility, Maxwell said, but because of homeowner concerns, Granite City Steel offered to buy them out. The offer will still stand for now but not indefinitely, Maxwell said.

Laura Ferris, whose grandmother lives on Iowa Street, said they didn't talk much to Maxwell because they didn't believe the appraisal was fair. The appraisals ranged from $15,000 to $29,000.

"We're not really wanting (the facility) there," she said. "There's other places where they could put it where there are no homes."

Asadorian cast the lone dissenting vote. He asked his fellow aldermen to consider such a large structure near their own homes.

Alderman Nick Petrillo agreed it was a tough call, wondering what he would do if it were his mother's home.

"Many of these people have lived there 30, 40, even 50 years. They bought that property when Granite City Steel was three, four or five blocks away," Asadorian said.

Asadorian said he did not agree with offering so little for a home that would be appraised for much more in another neighborhood or to an elderly person who would then need to take on a huge mortgage to live in a similar home elsewhere.

Alderman Craig Tarpoiff disagreed that the building would affect the property values and that the appraisals were based on their proximity to the steel mill.

Granite City Steel will construct a 196-foot-long, by 85-foot-wide by 49-foot-tall building running along Iowa Street. The vehicle maintenance garage will sit between 18th, 14th, Iowa and Washington streets on the Granite City-Madison city border. The steel mill also wanted the vacation of some alleys and parts of 16th between Washington and Iowa. The rezoning was from C-4 to M-3, said Maxwell.

The building will be heavily insulated on the sides and top, Maxwell said, and will have one entrance on the back of the building on Iowa, near the old Superior Auto building. It will not face any house.

Most of the work will be done on day shifts, he said, but work will be done at night if it is needed.

Contracts

teachers and the school district could have resulted in a work stoppage if both parties hadn't agreed on the contract.

Granite City Federation of Teachers Local 743 overwhelmingly approved the contract Sept. 16 after their previous contract had expired and after they had filed a required formal notice of intent to strike.

Representatives of both parties, however, felt the teachers and board were close to agreeing on the few sticking points. They were able to come to an acceptable agreement.

Under the new contract, teachers receive a 4 percent raise, and the district picks up the extra 1 percent cost to be paid into the teacher retirement plan. Teachers also have more choices on health care benefits and secured an increase of yearly school meetings to six from four.

District officials had offered raises that were a little bit higher than agreed upon and had wanted the teachers to pick up the additional 1 percent for the retirement funds.

Also at the special meeting Tuesday night, the board approved the three-year contract for district secretaries.

New employees will start at $10.14 an hour under the contract. Raises, depending on how long an employee has worked with the district, will be yearly.

Resource guide offers tips for grandparents raising kids

A new resource guide is designed to assist grandparents raising grandchildren.

"An estimated 70,000 Illinois children are being raised by grandparents or other relatives," said Maralee I. Lindley, director of the Illinois Department on Aging. "Both national and Illinois surveys tell us these grandparents need more information on everything from legal and financial matters to schools and day care."

The Illinois Department on Aging's new guide, "Starting Points for Grandparents Raising Grandchildren," is part of an overall public awareness effort to provide greater support to grandparent caregivers.

The department also will work to expand the number of local support groups for grandparents raising grandchildren.

"Reasons for increasing numbers of grandparents raising grandchildren relate to abuse, abandonment, incarceration, mental illness, unemployment, divorce, death and a host of others," Lindley said.

In addition to offering help with health, legal, financial, education and child-care needs, the guide also addresses issues relating to emotional needs of grandparents raising grandchildren.

Peggy Zweber, OSHA area director, said that one willful citation against GCS has been proposed. OSHA is alleging that Granite City Steel lacks a procedure, method or device to prevent the conveyor from moving while employees are on it and lacks safety training for employees exposed to the hazard.

According to OSHA, a "willful violation" means an employer knows that a condition constituted a violation or was aware that the hazardous condition existed and made no reasonable effort to correct it.

Granite City Steel has 15 working days to contest the citations and proposed penalty before the independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

Maxwell said that the company had just learned of OSHA's actions Wednesday and would decide soon to contest or to accept the citations and penalty.

Friday night features big league clash

The highlight of Friday night's Metro East high school football schedule includes a game which could knock one team down a few notches in the pursuit of the Southwestern Conference championship.

Edwardsville and East St. Louis battle at 7:30 p.m. in a clash of unbeaten teams.

The Tigers (4-0) are coming off a 45-0 thrashing of Alton. Edwardsville is 2-0 in the Southwestern Conference.

East St. Louis (4-0) and ranked No. 2 in the state among IHSA Class 5A teams) is coming off a 19-6 victory last Saturday at Normal Community.

Warriors pass first two tourney tests

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

All things considered, Granite City is lucky to have escaped the first two games of the Hazelwood (Mo.) Central Tournament unscathed.

With five regular players unavailable due to suspension, Granite City played St. Louis Rosary on Tuesday night without its full complement of players. Despite the shortened bench, the Warriors were able to dominate play most of the night and came away with a 1-0 victory.

"We're happy to get out of there with a win," coach Gene Baker said.

The only goal of the game came in the 37th minute.

Warriors forward Dave Margrabe took a corner from the right side and knocked the ball to Corey Winfield. Winfield found Josh Peacher in front of the net, and Peacher put away the game-winner.

"It was nice to see Peacher getting a good goal," Baker said.

Granite City dominated the play through the first half at Rosary, which was hosting the three pool play games the Warriors were playing in the tournament. Margrabe had a chance of his own just before the Granite City goal. He got down to block a free kick, flicked the ball around the lone defender, and ran the length of the field. The Rebels defenders were hot on his heels, and Margrabe lifted the shot over the crossbar.

The second half began the same way, but with less than 20 minutes on the game clock, the Rebels turned up the heat. Their best chance came with about 11 minutes left.

Rosary worked the ball deep into the Warriors defense. They passed through traffic, found a man open in front less than four feet from the goal line — and he shot it high over the bar.

Later in the half, Bob Scott cleared a ball off his own line for Granite City. And Neil Loftus, one of the junior varsity players standing in for the Warriors, cleared the ball out of the Granite City third with 13 seconds left to seal the victory.

"We defended more tonight, though Brandon (Williams) didn't have many shots to save," Baker said.

"The younger ones filling in made some mistakes, but that's to be expected. Of course, we missed some chances, but so did they."

Rosary is having an uncharacteristically poor season, falling to 1-6-1 after losses in the first two games of the tournament. But they had plenty of fight in their game.

"They are a well-coached team," Baker said. "They have been in most every game. They got a little more physical with us than we expected."

The Warriors received a boost heading into Wednesday night's match against Belleville Althoff. Ian Kessel, Justin Stone and Brad Hutchings were eligible to come off suspension.

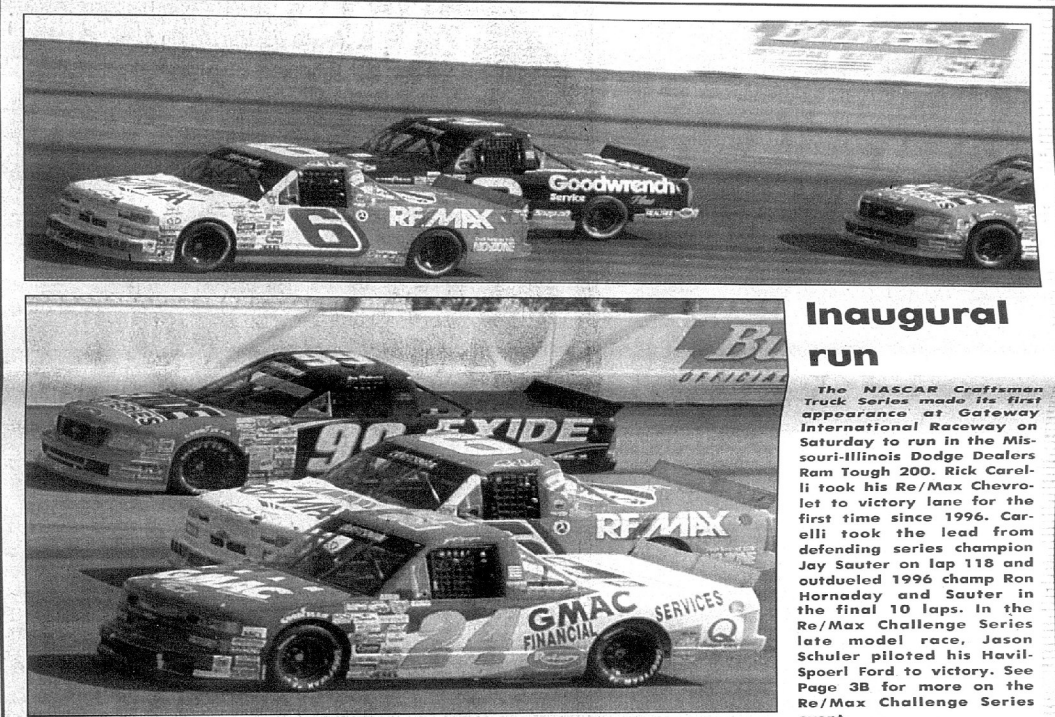

"We'll get the three kids back (Wednesday)," Baker said. "We were a bit fatigued toward the end of the Rosary game."

Althoff defeated Rosary 3-0 on Monday night in pool play.

"I'm sure we're going to have to come out ready to play," Baker said.

The tournament continues with winners of the four pools playing in the semifinals Friday. The tournament championship is Saturday.

Granite City runners showing improvement

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The varsity cross country team at Granite City is full of young guns — underclassmen breaking out of the gates. The Warriors' coffers seem to be stocked for the future.

"The coaching staff is not going to look past the present."

"I think we're doing real well," said Granite City coach Tom Haefner. "Our times are coming down. Team leaders are helping coordinate practices and warm-downs after meets, which are very important because the coaches are busy tracking the times."

"The kids are getting better all the time. They came into the season in good shape, which I was very happy about, and it is allowing them to go forward and peak at the right time."

Seven runners medaled at Edwardsville last week.

"We had a pretty successful meet at Edwardsville last week," Haefner said. "Kevin Atkins medaled at the varsity level. Kevin Curtis, James Murphy, and Andy Baker medaled for the sophomores. John Lance and James Conway medaled in the freshman division."

Penelope Meyer medaled in the girls varsity division. She has been very consistent and her times are coming down. "We have a full squad of six girls now, which is very encouraging."

The Warriors are having to sprint without a full complement of runners.

"David Elliff is getting over heat exhaustion from the Mount Vernon meet on Sept. 12," Haefner said. "He actually suffered it in the Granite City Invitational to start the season, and then we found out that he had strep throat."

"He'll really be an effective runner for us when he gets over his injuries, and it will help him when the weather turns cooler. But he's worked really hard all the way through this."

"Dan Robinson had a hernia operation, so we'll miss him this year."

Haefner said scores are not always the most important thing to a cross country. More important can be the improvement in times.

"We look more at how the individual runners do this year compared to last year — how their times are coming down, if they are peaking at the right time."

Haefner has several sophomore and freshman runners on the varsity squad, and he has been juggling his lineup at times to get a read on their progress.

"I've occasionally put some of my better runners down where they belong, in terms of age groups, so that they can have a chance to medal," he said. "I do that so they can see how they are doing in their own class, to make them feel good about how they are performing. So they can see, 'Hey, I'm doing all right.' It helps their morale."

Doubles teams playing strong for Warriors

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City tennis team is keeping its matches close, mainly through the efforts of the doubles teams. The Warriors singles players are continuing to struggle.

The Warriors lost three of four singles matches recently to Collinsville, and were beaten 4-3. Senior Jan Shanafelt was the only Warriors singles player to win her match — 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 against Kahoks senior Katie Stuts.

Junior Julie LeMaster and senior Sarah Gieson were beaten in straight sets, while sophomore Ashley Burdge stretched Collinsville's Jill Wolf to three sets before falling, 4-4, 7-6, 1-6.

GIRLS TENNIS

"Ashley (Burdge) has been doing so well," Granite City coach Linda Ames said. "We thought we had her all set up to win that last set."

"I think her concentration starting waning, but that happens. We're certainly not down on her at all."

The doubles teams won two of three matches. Seniors Robyn Slater and Amanda Pashea, and junior Krista Morton and sophomore Jolene Harris knocked off their opponents. Warriors Juniors Katherine Isom and Beth Siebold were upset by Andrea Moore and Charity Roger, 0-6, 6-4, 3-6.

"We were really hoping we could beat Collinsville only has four courts, and it didn't play very well, didn't play with much intensity."

"Part of that stems from the fact that Collinsville only has four courts, so some of the doubles teams had to sit and wait. They aren't used to that. It makes them lethargic."

"Isom and Siebold particularly were off, and they knew it. They have been playing so incredibly well and they just didn't have it that day."

After a rainout against Civic Memorial on Sept. 14, Granite City defeated Roxana 4-3.

All of the doubles teams took victories. Juniors Krista Morton and sophomore Jolene Harris had the most impressive victory, 6-1, 6-1 over Caroline Kastan and Stacey Vassier.

"They played really well and won quickly," Ames said.

Again, Jan Shanafelt was the only Warriors singles player to win. Shanafelt beat Hillary Estmon, 6-2, 6-4.

Warriors have ups and downs

Granite City wins O'Fallon tournament

By Rick Boome
Staff writer

The Granite City golf team has been on a little bit of a roller-coaster ride lately. Following a loss to Alton last week, the Warriors were tops in the field of eight teams this past weekend at the O'Fallon Panthers Classic. On Tuesday, the Warriors lost by 13 strokes to powerful Belleville East.

The highlight obviously was the showing Saturday in the O'Fallon Panthers Classic at Tamarack. Granite City scored a 309 to win the championship. Althoff finished second with a score of 319. Mater Dei was right behind the Redbirds with a 321, followed by Triad at 323. Highland (332), O'Fallon (335), Civic Memorial (341) and Collinsville (344) rounded out the field.

The individual medalist was Robin Dillinger of Civic Memorial.

Sophomore Brett Solberger has been a key contributor to the Granite City golf team this season.

with an even-par 71. The Warriors put together a balanced attack with four finishers in the top 10.

Brett Briggs finished second overall in the tournament with a 2-over 73. Dan Harper tied for third with a 78. Jerden tied for seventh with a 79, and Matt Rustio tied for 10th with an 80. Ty Suhre (81) and Brett Solberger (89) also competed in the tournament for the Warriors.

The tourney finish was a healthy sign after Granite City lost 157-161 to Alton on Sept. 17. Collinsville was third with a 179.

Granite City juniors Jerden and Briggs each shot a round of 38 on the par-36 layout at Lockhaven. Solberger, a sophomore, shot 42 while team-mates Ty Suhre (43) and Dan Harper (45) also contributed.

On Tuesday, the Warriors came up short against one of the best teams in the Metro East in Belleville East.

At Okawville, the Warriors put together a score of 184, beating East St. Louis' 259 but trailing East by 13.

Jerden and Suhre each shot 40 on the par-36 front nine at Clinton Hills.

"Belleville East has a big advantage here at Clinton Hills," Granite City coach Boone Chaney said. "They are one of the best teams in our conference, and we didn't shoot in the 150's."

Granite City's trio of Brett Solberger, Matt Rustio and Ryan McAteer each shot 42.

The Warriors play Civic Memorial and Mascoutah today at Arlington.

Ty Suhre fires a shot for the Granite City golf team.

"That's where we've been struggling all year," Ames said. "We switched our lineup around to try and make some changes. We also have to find some singles players for next year. Julie (LeMaster) and Ashley (Burdge) are getting experience now that they can use next year."

"We think our doubles are very strong, so we try to get a couple of wins out of the singles to set us up to win the matches."

"We're getting everything we expected out of the veterans on this team. The girls next year are going to have some big shoes to fill."

Schuler victorious in Re/Max Challenge race

NASCAR Busch Grand National Series completes Gateway 'Grand Slam' in October

In the Re/Max Challenge Series late model race, Jason Schuler of Cambridge, Wis., piloted his Havi-Spoel Ford to victory over Ron Bruce Jr. of DeKalb, Ill., and defending champ Neil Knoblock.

Pole sitter, points leader and defending Re/Max champion Eddie Hoffman finished third but was disqualified after a post-race inspection. He will likely surrender the points lead to four-time series champ Steve Carlson of West Salem, Wis., who finished sixth.

Rick Carelli won the inaugural Missouri-Illinois Dodge Dealers Ram Tough 200 on Saturday. Carelli, a Denver resident, pocketed $48,175 for his victory.

The fourth and final jewel in Gateway's "Grand Slam" season of major league motor sports is set for Oct. 15-17 with the CarQuest Auto Parts 250.

The NASCAR Busch Series, Grand National Division, will return with Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Matt Kenseth positioning themselves for a late-season run at the title. Randy LaJoie has won for the last two years. Backing up that event is the season finale of the USAC Silver Crown Championship.

Tickets for the event can be ordered by calling (888) 82-SPEED.

"Other times, like for sectional, when we want to field our best team, we move them up to varsity where they belong," according to their coach.

Next up for the Warriors is the Springfield Invitational, Saturday at 10 a.m.

"We're looking forward to the meet at Springfield next week," Hanner said. "It seems things are working together. If we can avoid any more injuries, we should be in good shape for regionals on Oct. 24."

"We are very hopeful and enthusiastic about this team. The kids work hard and are responding to their times coming down. The assistant coaches are working real hard."

"This team has a great spirit and sense of unity. They are peaking at the right time. We're working toward the goal of regionals, and I think we are in optimal shape to get to sectionals on Oct. 31."

"It has been a fun year so far."

Metro East boxer to release CD

Arthur "Flash" Johnson, noted bantamweight in the World Boxing Organization, will release his first compact disc of original music on Oct. 24.

The album was recorded with producer John Paul Susann in Poplar Bluff, Mo., and features a Contemporary Christian flavor. Johnson wrote all the songs himself.

"I'm still very active in fighting," Johnson said from his home in O'Fallon. "Now I'm spreading my wings and using my other multi-talents."

Johnson, 32, is a graduate of East St. Louis Lincoln High School. He has fought in the 115-pound bantamweight division for the WBO and other sanctioned boxing organizations.

Flash expects the CD to hit more than 2,500 radio stations by the time it debuts next month.

Program to recognize, reward good deeds

The youth group of Pontoon Baptist Church is participating in a Knowledge Seekers Program that will span a 16-week period.

During this time, members of the group will receive points for attendance, taking guests to church and helping in the children's church. Points also will be given for preparing and taking part in Sunday School lessons and prayers; participating in all church services with music, ushering, missionary moments and volunteering for Meals of Love; helping somebody needy; and taking part in work day at church.

Maxine Green

Secret spotters will help participants gain points for above-and-beyond Christian behavior. At the end of the 16-week program, Toni Bickel, youth leader, plans an auction so the youth will be able to use their points to purchase prizes.

The programs consisted of missionary moments, prayer, experiences, equipping seminars, Bible studies, singing and sharing fun.

Attending from Granite City were Jane Rapheal, Third Baptist Church; Jean Corzine, Grace Baptist Church; and Kay Anderson and Tina Lyons, Calvary Baptist Church.

The Pontoon Beach Senior Citizens regular meeting was held Tuesday in the Senior Citizens Hall with 35 members attending.

The Merry Makers Kitchen Band from Edwardsville entertained. Plans were discussed for a trip to Herman, Mo., for the Fall Festival in October. The Afghan was won by Margaret Buske. Attendance prizes were won by Art Thurston, Rose Edmiston, Nellie Forrest, Jim Hill and Edna Bennett, Lou Trgovich won the 50/50.

The Homemakers Sunday School Class meeting was held Saturday in the home of Chuck and Carrie Luperdus with the Adult's 111 Men and Adult's 11 classes for a fish fry and fellowship.

Those attending were Harry and Emily Hagopian, Lloyd and Vera Belcher, Norman and Emma Hessler, Roger and Edna Sagner, Paul and Barbara Schreiber, Jim and Barb Arnett, Jim and Barb Mersinger, April Glowacki, the Rev. Fred and Dorothy Boatright, Betty Gedes, Garland and Eva Horn, Bob and Janice Stanton, Marge Borth, Tina Lyons, Kay Anderson and Louise Sullivan.

During a spring revival at Pontoon Baptist Church, the Rev. Jesse Powers talked about Romanian mission trip opportunities. The trip will be offered twice this year, Nov. 2-12 and Nov. 11-21. Diana Bickel will be going, accompanied by others.

The needs in Romania are great. Romanian Bibles are $3.25 each, and Romanian New Testaments are $1 each. Two suitcases will be taken on this trip — weighing 70 pounds each — containing medicine and clothing for children in orphanages, some small toys and candy.

If interested in this endeavor, call Bickel at 344-0607.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike (Diana) Corrado have returned home from Dexter, Ky., where they visited his mother, Hilda Corrado. She accompanied them on the trip home.

The Baptist Student Ministries is now forming its music and drama groups for the 1998-1999 school year.

It is required that you be an active member of a Southern Baptist Church, enrolled in a local college or university and attend regular rehearsals. If interested, call 656-4100 for more information.

Clifford Shaffer and Cheri White have returned home from a week's vacation at the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri.

Classes enjoy 45th reunion

The classes of January and June 1953 recently held a 45th reunion.

About 110 people enjoyed shish-ka-bobs, "rice by the sea" and trimmings July 24 at Rollins Club House in Pontoon Beach.

On July 25, evening Sunset Hills Country Club was the scene for a group of about 125. The group enjoyed a buffet and danced to the music of the '40s and 50s played by J. Christopher.

Butch Bicanic served as master of ceremonies and Marvin Boyer, who gave the invocation. Norma Acceller, Art Theis and Bob Butler welcomed the classmates and guests. A special poem written by Bob Lawson was read by Mary Jane Wade. A "Whiskas" jingle by Peggy Creed and two original pieces by Carolyn Belling also were read.

On July 26, a group of 45 took a tour of the newly renovated high school.

Co-chairman for the 50th reunion — to be held in 2003 — are Belling, Marilyn Lunsford, Nadine Ryan for the June class and Ed Schmidt and Joyce Corey for January class.

Committee members that planned the festivities were Carolyn and Bill Belling, Bicanic, Ed Bodman, Boyer, Jo Ann Dix, Wade, Betty Tester, Ryan, Lunsford, Ron David, JoAnn King, Doris Edwards, Norma Weiler, Theis and Bob Butler.

Anyone interested in serving on the committee for the 50th reunion should call Carolyn Belling at 797-0469 or Ed Schmidt at 931-5745.

'Court' system will help clean up city, Greco says

MADISON — The first hearing dates for the new adjudication system in the city of Madison went smoothly Saturday morning, said city officials.

"I think it's going to be good for the community, as well as making it a little more convenient for people to come pay their fines on a Saturday instead of having to take off work," said Mayor John Hamm.

Under the new system, cases are settled in a city "court" before Hearing Officer John Greco. Fines are set on a sliding scale, with larger fines levied for each appearance. The court hears cases for non-traffic offenses, such as parking and equipment violations, and city code violations, primarily tall grass and weeds.

The minimum fine is $50 if paid before the hearing, however, the hearing officer can either dismiss the ticket, levy the original fine or impose a higher fine according to the fee schedule.

Greco said the city — like most other municipalities — has had ongoing problems with code violators, and the new system will clear those up.

System targets blacks, Garrett says

MADISON — Madison's new ticket system is "simply something to oppress the people of Madison, especially black people," said Madison County Board member Don Garrett.

Garrett, who received a $50 fine for parking too far from the curb, passed out copies of his newsletter "The Truth" to others at Saturday's hearing session.

Alison said the district emphasizes pre-school and early elementary education.

This year, the district added an additional kindergarten and first-grade class at both Blair and Harris elementary schools. Each of the schools also has a new media clerk. At Blair School, the district will add a parent and child educator who will work with pre-school children and their parents. Harris School will add a social worker.

At Madison Middle School, the district added a behavior intervention specialist and additional security, the "looping program" and team teaching at each grade level. A career development specialist and a speech neadstutor have been added to Madison High School.

Garrett's newsletter talked about two tickets handed out for illegal parking to Bishop Jesse King and Assistant Pastor Wade Newsome of the West Madison Apostolic Church.

He said the officer who had earlier ticketed Garrett for illegal parking — was on a "crusade to 'clean up the town' and show these black families who the real boss is."

Mayor John Hamm said the tickets were not issued vindictively and were not racially motivated.

"We're not out there to do that, we're out there to uphold city ordinances," Hamm said. Hamm said he did not know the specifics of any of the cases.

"The city of Madison is here to work with the black community as well as the white community," he said.

Group striving for solid future

GRANITE CITY — The revitalization movement to make Granite City the best city in which to live and work is picking up speed.

Solid Granite Inc., a non-profit corporation several community leaders and residents formed in 1997, wants to enhance the image and quality of city living and business by promoting community development and civic growth.

It's an ambitious idea that Solid Granite recognizes only will come to pass when more people from government to residents, catch the dream as well.

Jumping off from two public idea-gathering meetings held in 1997, Solid Granite formed five committees around wide-ranging objectives.

They include recreating Granite City into the cleanest industrial city in America; redesigning the city's entry corridors to be the most attractive in the Midwest; creating new residential neighborhoods while removing all blighted neighborhoods in the city; redeveloping commercial districts, downtown and Nameoki Village into quality investment areas; and redeveloping all industrial districts and brownfields into quality environmental areas.

Annexation of Dial property sought

EDWARDSVILLE — The Dial Corp. plant on Illinois 111 may be the latest pawn in the land grab between Edwardsville and the group trying to incorporate Mitchell.

The warehouse and surrounding property is included in the incorporation map approved earlier this year by the Madison County Board.

But a petition has been filed to annex the plant and adjacent land to the city of Edwardsville.

If the city annexes the nearly 240 acres, it will hold more than 65 percent of the Gateway Commerce Center, a light industrial park expected to generate millions of dollars in revenue as well as about three-quarters of the state-designated "enterprise zone" within its corporate limits.

The annexation also would mark Edwardsville's farthest expansion into the American Bottoms and the first time the city has crossed Illinois 111. The land became contiguous to the city last year after Edwardsville annexed more than 1,700 acres in the bottoms.

The petition to annex the 240 acres to Edwardsville was filed in the Madison County Recorder's Office March 25, before Mitchell's scaled-back proposal was approved by the County Board in July.

District chalks up more improvements

MADISON — The Madison School District plans what Superintendent Gary Allison calls "significant" improvements in the coming year while keeping the district in the black on the tax rate side.

A $9.5 million budget for the 1998-1999 school year — which began July 1 — was approved at Thursday's board meeting. That is an increase of about $600,000 from the previous year. The board also approved a tax levy of $1.14 million.

Allison said the district emphasizes pre-school and early elementary education.

This year, the district added an additional kindergarten and first-grade class at both Blair and Harris elementary schools. Each of the schools also has a new media clerk. At Blair School, the district will add a parent and child educator who will work with pre-school children and their parents. Harris School will add a social worker.

At Madison Middle School, the district added a behavior intervention specialist and additional security, the "looping program" and team teaching at each grade level. A career development specialist and a speech neadstutor have been added to Madison High School.

Bridge faces brush

OLD CHAIN OF ROCKS BRIDGE — The Old Chain of Rocks Bridge will be open for one last time Saturday before being closed to the public for repainting.

The bridge — now undergoing a $3.4 million renovation as a pedestrian-bicycle trail by Trailnet Inc. — will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

On Friday, Trailnet will be having a fundraising dinner on the bridge to celebrate the group's 10th anniversary. After this weekend, the bridge will be closed to the public while parts of it are being repainted. The reason for closing the bridge is that the old paint being removed is lead-based, and could create a health hazard.

The cost to attend Friday's fund-raiser is $25. It will include music and dinner. For information, call Trailnet at 874-8554. The Saturday open house is free.

All get their fill at Gateway race

MADISON — An estimated 25,000 race fans were on hand to see Rick Garelli win the Ram Tough 200 at Gateway International Raceway Saturday afternoon.

In the second race, Jason Schuler of Cambridge, Wis., won the Re/Max Challenge Series Gateway 50.

One happy race fan was Jeffrey D. Croso of St. Louis, who was one of 15 contestants given a chance to win the pace truck. Croso won.

The contestants were picked after filling out forms at local car dealers' stores and through a local radio station.

"He happened to be going in to buy his daughter some diapers and took a minute to fill it (the entry form) out," said Tim Schuler, national marketing manager for Gateway.

Fans were also given a rare treat, a chance to sit in on the pre-race driver's meeting, held under the grandstand this year.

Bridge opens one last time

Area residents have one last chance this year to tour the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge. An open house, free to the public, will be held on the bridge from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

After Saturday's event, the bridge will be closed to the public — probably until spring — for repainting, part of a $3.4 million renovation.

The bridge will be closed during repainting because the old paint being removed is lead-based, and could create a health hazard.

This weekend was originally supposed to be the grand opening for the bridge, but because of delays that has been pushed back.

When finished, the bridge — leased from the city of Madison — will be what Trainet Inc. says is the world's longest pedestrian and bicycle bridge.

The first phase of the project, basic repairs and safety features, was expected to be done by Sept. 26, but delays with the Missouri Department of Transportation set that back.

The second phase includes amenities.

The entrance to the bridge is on the Missouri side of the Mississippi River, just south of the Interstate 270 bridge in North St. Louis.

ENTERTAINMENT

SIUE series offers talk, music and dance

Arts and Issues program begins its 14th season

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

For the best in quality entertainment and topical talk, the Arts and Issues series at Southern Illinois University is the place to be.

Already several events for the 1998-99 season are sold out. Event coordinator Rich Walker says that the series is enjoying tremendous interest and attendance.

The series is in its 14th year of providing distinguished speakers and exciting performers to audiences in Southwestern Illinois. The series usually sells about 150 season memberships, but last month, that number climbed to over 180.

Former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop kicked things off Sept. 12 with a talk on how to fix managed health care.

Several remaining events are already sold out, including tonight's performance by the James Sewell Ballet Company, an innovative dance company based in Minneapolis.

With only six dancers and carefully considered costume and lighting designs, Sewell and company perform a rich variety of innovative dance. The company has distinguished itself as a ballet troupe, using traditional ballet with a mixture of modern dance and theatrical dance, which often provides a humorous setting.

The remaining speaking events include:

- Jan. 21 — Myrlie Evers-Williams, former chair of the NAACP and widow of the murdered civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

- Feb. 11 — Pulitzer-Prize winning author John Updike, writer of such novels as "Rabbit at Rest."

The remaining performances for the season are:

- Oct. 21 — The St. Petersburg String Quartet, one of the great chamber ensembles of the world.

- Nov. 8 — The Preservation Hall Jazz Band, which offers traditional New Orleans, pre-Dixieland sound.

- March 30 — Distinguished actor Hal Holbrook offers his one-man show, "Mark Twain Tonight," a Tony Award-winning performance of the 19th century American humorist.

All events begin at 7:30 p.m. except for the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, which plays at 4 p.m.

For tickets, event locations or more information, call 650-2626.

The James Sewell Ballet Company performs tonight at SIUE as part of the university's Arts and Issues series.

'Rush Hour' makes season's top debut

Review, Page 5D

"Rush Hour" raked in $31 million in its opening weekend, shattering the record for the best debut ever in August, September and October and proving there was no traffic jam at the box office, industry figures showed.

The film, starring Hong Kong action star Jackie Chan and comic Chris Tucker as mismatched cops facing an international crisis, sailed past the No. 2 film, "One True Thing," a family drama starring Meryl Streep and Renee Zellweger that brought in $6.6 million.

Chan, whose previous movies were only modest U.S. hits, has said he hopes that "Rush Hour" will win him the kind of fame in America that he enjoys in Asia.

"Rounders," which debuted the previous weekend, dropped from the top spot to No. 4 with $4.8 million in ticket sales, while "Simon Birch" ranked No. 5 with $3.9 million, according to weekend estimates from Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc.

The other films in the top 10 were holdover hits from the summer.

"Rush Hour" set a new three-day opening record for

It's business, not payola, these days

Record companies working hard to get their music heard

Music you've never heard before is turning up in the strangest places.

You can hear it over the loudspeaker at minor league basketball games, on TV sets displayed in department stores or in movie theaters before the trailers begin.

Every note is a measure of the desperation that record companies feel about having their new music heard by possible buyers in a radio climate in which decisions on what to play are made by fewer and fewer people.

The search for new ways to expose music even revived a practice that once shamed the industry: a record company paying a radio station to play a song. The practice was called payola decades ago. Now it's called business.

Songs will always be able to capture the public imagination like this summer's duel between Brandy and Monica on "The Boy Is Mine" or Shania Twain's genre-smashing "You're Still the One."

But for every hit, there's a bigger pile of misses. The business of making a hit record is complicated today by changes in how radio stations operate, the fragmentation of public tastes and the sheer volume of music competing for air time.

"You can't just count on people hearing it on the radio and going to the store on Saturday," sighed Ron Shapiro, executive vice president and general manager of Atlantic Records.

Subject to the whims of public taste, creating a hit record has never been a science. Who knew that so many teen-age girls would swoon over "My Heart Will Go On," or that teen-age boys would emphatically reject the new Van Halen?

At least the process was relatively simple: Get a few key radio stations to play the record, make sure MTV airs the video, and let music fans decide.

Consolidation of the radio industry has changed the rules. Dominant companies like Chancellor Media, Jacor Communications and CBS have bought hundreds of stations across the country. Executives for these companies often decide what songs will or won't be played on dozens of

One-Act Play Festival is this weekend at college

By Mary J. Schirmer

Fenton resident Robert Nolan Clark will find himself 50 stories up, balanced on a steel girder three times this weekend.

Clark will appear as Charlie in "Mere Mortals," a comedy by playwright David Ives. The play is St. Louis Community College at Forest Park's entry in the eighth annual One-Act Play Festival this Friday and Saturday at the community college in south St. Louis. The festival will take place in the Mildred E. Bastian Performing Arts Center, 5600 Oakland Ave., at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday.

"I started acting as a way to deal with the free time that I had after going through a divorce," said Clark, who is manager of Nolan Dental Laboratory in Arnold. "Plus, I was always bent toward the creative art thing, with a background in radio."

A regular actor in staged readings by the Missouri Association of Playwrights, Clark has acted in two locally produced feature films and in "A Will of Their Own," a TV mini-series that will air this fall.

"I enjoy the experimentation and the thrill of doing a lot of different things," Clark said. "I think that the fun thing is the ability to try to be people that I'm not. It's the creative expression. I like a challenge."

Clark's size helped him land this role, said Dennis Rau, Forest Park's theater manager and director of "Mere Mortals."

"On first impression, Rob fulfilled my image of the character physically," Rau said. "However, I also cast him based on his talent as an actor."

"This is an ensemble piece, and so it was very important to find three actors that integrated well on stage because each character has a very distinctive personality."

The other actors in "Mere Mortals" are Don McClendon of the Central West End and Dave Mueller of High Ridge.

The play eavesdrops on a lunch hour on a girder 50 stories above the street as three construction workers share hilarious secrets from their past.

"He's a funny character; he's an everyday guy. He's the guy across the street. He's a true-blue family guy. He's got an hour off in the middle of a very hard job, and he tries to make the most of it."

Because of his background in football and weight-lifting, Clark said he gets stereotyped as a tough guy, but he has a dream.

"I like to be a lead in a romantic comedy, in a movie," he said. "I have searched heaven and earth. I found a script, and now I'm looking for a backer."

For information about the one-act play festival, call 644-9386 or 644-9388.

Chan movie combines martial arts, comedy

Jackie Chan, Chris Tucker prove an entertaining pair

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

"Rush Hour" successfully combines two very different talents — martial arts star Jackie Chan and stand-up comic Chris Tucker — in an entertaining action-comedy. Chan stars as ace Hong Kong detective Inspector Lee, who opens the film in explosive fashion while recovering several priceless Chinese artifacts from a mysterious criminal mastermind named Juntao. Juntao retaliates by ordering the kidnapping of the Chinese Consul's daughter in the United States, and demanding a high ransom for her return. The child is coincidentally good friends with Lee.

The Consul (Tzi Ma) sends for Lee to assist, but the FBI agents handling the case don't want his help. They decide to remove the distraction by pairing him off with a local police officer, whose assignment will be to keep Lee out of the way. Enter LAPD detective

MOVIE REVIEW

James Carter (Tucker). He's the classic maverick cop — doesn't want a partner, doesn't get along with his superiors or his co-workers, and his arrests result in extensive property damage. His boss is only too happy to loan him to the FBI.

And Carter is happy to go, until he learns he's been given a babysitting job. Lee, of course, isn't happy with the arrangement either, and eventually the duo join forces to solve the case themselves.

Directed by Brett Ratner, who worked with Tucker on last year's film "Money Talks," "Rush Hour" is an amusing film in the vein of "Lethal Weapon," "48 Hours" and "Beverly Hills Cop." The story is pure formula, but it works thanks to the strength of its key players.

Tucker is a unique comic talent, with Eddie Murphy attitude, Michael Jackson moves and a voice like a hyper Mickey Mouse. He's the perfect counterpoint to the more subdued Chan. Chan, meanwhile, continues providing the cleverly choreographed fight scenes that have made him a star. Chan's action scenes aren't as long or elaborate as previous films, but then he has to share the spotlight this time out.

August, September or October, beating the $18.9 million set in 1996 by "First Wives Club," according to Exhibitor Relations.

It also was the biggest opening for a New Line Cinema film, breaking the record set in March 1990 by "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles."

"I think no one expected this number, including us," said Mitch Goldman, New Line's president of marketing and distribution.

The film "performed beyond all expectations," said Paul Dergarabedian, president of Exhibitor Relations.

"I think New Line positioned 'Rush Hour' in exactly the right spot," he said, noting that the post-Labor Day period is usually a slow time for movies. "It's just proving again you can open a picture at any time of the year and it can be a hit."

"One True Thing" about an adult daughter who moves back home to be with her dying mom, was a hit not only with women, as expected, but with men as well, said Alan Sutton, senior vice president of distribution and marketing for Universal Pictures.

62nd homer thrilled thousands

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

Like thousands of other St. Louis Cardinals fans, I never will forget the night of Sept. 8, 1998.

That was the occasion, of course, when Mark McGwire smacked his 62nd home run of the season, breaking the 37-year-old record of Roger Maris. It was a great moment in sports that you felt privileged to witness. McGwire hit the homer, jogged around the bases, hugged his son and saluted the Maris family. It was thrilling and touching.

Since then, people have been asking where the McGwire record-breaker stacks on the list of best Cardinals moments? This is, after all, one of the most successful teams in Major League Baseball history.

Is it better than when the Cards won the seventh game of the 1982 World Series, with Bruce Sutter getting the final out?

Is it more important than when Lou Brock stole his 105th base in 1974, when he broke the steals record for a season?

Is it more memorable than Bob Gibson striking out 17 in the first game of the 1968 World Series to set yet another record?

There are so many Cardinals feats to consider. Stan Musial's 3,000th hit is frozen in time for many people. Enos Slaughter scoring the winning run in the seventh game of the 1946 World Series was big. More recently, there were the homers hit by Ozzie Smith and Jack Clark to win games against the Dodgers in the 1985 National League playoffs.

To me, I don't see how anything could ever top the Smith and Clark homers, but McGwire's 62nd shot is close. It will certainly live on in the minds of St. Louis Cardinals fans.

For this week's trivia quiz, the topic is the night Mark (See TRIVIA, Page 8D)

1. Home run 62 came off of which Chicago Cubs pitcher?
2. It was hit in what inning?
3. What time was it when the homer was hit?
4. What is McGwire's son's name? He served as the batboy that night and got lifted high into the air by his dad after the homer.
5. What number does Big Mac wear?
6. How far did homer No. 62 travel?
7. What was the score of the game at the time McGwire hit the homer?
8. What was the final score of the game?
9. McGwire almost missed touching which base during his home run trot?
10. Who was playing third base for Chicago at the time of the historic homer?

Answers: 1. Steve Trachsel. The homer came on the first pitch of the at-bat. 2. The fourth inning. 3. 8:18 p.m. 4. Matt. 5. 25. 6. 341 feet. 7. The Cubs led 2-0. 8. The Cards won the game 6-3. 9. # HOROSCOPE THURSDAY, SEPT. 24

Mercury joins the sun in Libra today, exciting our imagination and amplifying our appreciation for music and personal beautification. Mars in Leo accentuates these artistic Libra influences, increasing our self-esteem and making us feel dramatic — do things with a flourish! Meanwhile, the Scorpio moon continues to stir up the passions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Correcting a lover will inflame the problem — teach by example, or use humor to make a point. Seize an opportunity to lecture or perform — it's a once-in-a-lifetime chance! A romantic connection is golden, so treat this person well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). A test of patience is passed with flying colors — but is the relationship worth the hassle? A romantic possibility gives an inexpensive but beautiful gift. Dependability is the discussion topic between partners this afternoon.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). If you can maintain your classy air when others crumble and fight, you'll be commended. If you feel comfortable everywhere, you'll be invited to return. Sign up for sports, dancing or other lessons for romantic luck.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). An insecure lover relies on you for a sense of well-being. New avenues open up for choice investments. An infrequent visitor wants to set you up on a great blind date. You'll have to be the tough voice of reason in a friendship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Don't waste time by letting others bend your ear with useless or negative information. Some one was watching when you were not. Ask around, and your mystery will be solved. An Aries is just your style.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY: You've got the key to another's heart. Congratulate yourself for perfect work in the next three weeks, but everything won't be easy. The point is who you become while reaching for that goal. Family harmony will pull a loved one through a difficult ordeal.

February is a money-making month, especially in sales. A Capricorn or Taurus are great love interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Gossip is strange but true. A better way of framing a problem will bring you a swift solution. It's OK to take pleasure in getting attention; after all, you deserve to be noticed. Difficult partnerships (See HOROSCOPE, Page 10D) become more manageable. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Romance blossoms when you push fears aside and see what happens. Keep original paper work, contracts and instructions — you'll need to refer back by the end of the week. Say "no" when need be, and life becomes simple.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Your popularity is on the rise. If it looks like you may be financially taken for granted, pull back the funds and energy just long enough so others take notice. Creative doors are opened as a result of fullness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your family provides the best guidance. Exercise patience! Others are offended if you interrupt. "Just desserts" are served, so just be sure your nose is clean! To stir up dynamite feelings, try a starlit walk.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Act as if you already have the funding, and it all falls in line. An exotic gift will show a romantic hopeful your class. Give compliments sparingly, so others will know when you really mean it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Stay calm, and things have a way of turning in your favor. Emotions interrupt your sound logic. Focus is the key to success. There's no way to prepare for a pleasant close encounter tonight — just look and feel your best.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Apply your own carefully constructed standards instead of going strictly by the company rules. Your hesitancy to accept instruction is based on a deeper intuition — follow it. An old flame comes blazing back into your life.

Players going on RAMpage

Benefit event features Rams fashion show

By Lonnell Cole
Correspondent

They'll go from the football field to the fashion stage and from scoring touchdowns to strutting their stuff.

Several members of the St. Louis Rams will assume those very different roles later this month, all in the name of charity.

"It's really a fun event," said Allison Collinger, director of the St. Louis Rams Foundation. "You'll see players juxtaposed in fashion attire, as opposed to their football uniforms."

Rams players Tony Banks, Kevin Carter, Ernie Conwell, D'Marco Farr, Orlando Pace and many more will take part in the Fourth Annual Fashion RAMpage beginning at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the club's facility in Earth City.

Dillard's and Chaps by Ralph Lauren are co-sponsoring the event, which Rams coach Dick Vermeil, his wife, Carol, and Rams owner Georgia Frontiere are co-chairing.

In addition to a fashion show, the RAMpage features dishes from St. Louis restaurants, cocktails, live and silent auctions, and other activities.

Tickets for the show are $75, and the money is tax deductible. Proceeds benefit the St. Louis Rams Foundation, which primarily serves youth throughout the region.

"We focus on education, literature, health and recreation," Collinger said. "We help fund 32 (local) agencies. We spread our resources."

Rams owners Georgia Frontiere and Stan Kroenke have committed at least $1 million over the next four years to the foundation.

"We look for an opportunity to give something back to the St. Louis community," Collinger said.

"This is probably one of the longest-running public affairs programs in the country: United Way and the NFL," said Brian Flinchbaugh, director of public relations for the United Way of Greater St. Louis.

•Music

popular disc jockey Alan Freed's empire collapsed in disgrace after it was revealed he had accepted money from record companies to play their songs.

The practice was made illegal, but not if the arrangement is disclosed upfront to listeners. A radio DJ might say, for example, that the song is "brought to you by" the record company — much as a corporate sponsor would be announced for a commercial break.

Is this a smart way to get music heard? Or will consumers reject a song so tainted by commercialism?

Interscope executives wouldn't talk about whether they considered the experiment a success. Similar deals reportedly have been in the works for country radio stations, but none has materialized.

"The idea of a cash transaction for airplay so scares them that they run to other practices that can't be accounted for," said Sky Daniels, general manager of the trade publication Radio and Records.

Murkier methods could be record companies giving radio executives free concert tickets to use or give away, or flying in a hot band to play at a station-sponsored concert — stunts that don't show up on a spreadsheet.

Some companies are bypassing radio altogether and becoming their own music programmers. This summer, Island Records produced a half-hour TV show on two of its artists, Tricky and Pulp, who have achieved critical acclaim but little radio airplay. The show aired on local access cable channels in Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and elsewhere.

Columbia and A and M created their own radio or television shows to spotlight their artists. A and M calls its program "Cafe Sound."

The cable channel Access Entertainment Network was created earlier this year as an outlet for musicians who couldn't get their videos played on MTV or VH1. Record companies flocked to network president Bill Bernard, which he sees as a symptom of their frustration.

"I figured it would be a little slow in the rollout," Bernard said. "I thought we'd have a lot more convincing to do. But the initial response was that this was a great idea."

Access Entertainment Network makes no secret that it's a grand music infomercial.

Along with the videos, it contains company programming like "Cafe Sound" for example, and regular shows made by the record chain Best Buy and Spin magazine. So far, it's available only at odd times in about 6 million cable homes.

It's not the only way music marketers have seized opportunities to expose new music.

Movie soundtracks are almost like mini-radio stations on CDs, and consumers have lapped them up this year. Victoria's Secret and Pottery Barn, retailers not traditionally involved in the music business, sell their own custom compilation CDs.

In true 1990s synergy, Atlantic Records placed some of its music on "Dawson's Creek," the TV serial popular with teen-agers on the WB network. Atlantic's corporate partner in Time Warner. Sales of Edwin McCain's song, "I'll Be," rose dramatically when it was on the series' season finale, Shapiro said.

Atlantic has also signed a deal with the Continental Basketball Association to play its music at arenas. Island arranges to have videos played on television sets stacked up in department stores or in art house theaters before a movie.

"When the audience is sitting still doing nothing but thinking, why not have them listen to music?" Alexis Aubrey, Island's marketing director, said.

Bike ride is benefit for Children's Hospital

The Illinois Knights of Columbus Councils of Troy and Highland will host a Wheels for Life Fun Bike Ride at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 11.

This organized family-fun bike ride will raise money for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis. Participants will have their choice of two venues for the event, including an 11-mile course in Troy or a nine-mile course in Highland.

The "turnaround" point for both courses is St. Jacob Township Park.

Participants are asked to collect donations from friends, neighbors and relatives, and prizes will be awarded to those who raise the most in donations. The grand prize for the top money-raiser from each council will be a new TREK mountain bike.

The registration fee for the event is $10; those who raise $25 or more will have their fees waived. In addition, those who raise $35 or more will receive a special St. Jude T-shirt, and those who raise $75 or more will receive the shirt and a St. Jude sports bag.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainment legend Danny Thomas in 1962. It is the largest childhood cancer research center in the United States in terms of patients treated and treatment success.

Treatment is provided free of charge to affected families, and all findings are shared freely with doctors and hospitals throughout the world.

The Troy and Highland K-C Councils urge all residents and businesses to take part in the event. Entry forms can be found at area bicycle shops and at local K-C Councils, or by calling Jeff Dempsey at 667-6984 or Morris Zobrist at 654-7801.
